THE EXAMINATION IN THE LON-DON COURTS.

r. Robert C. M. Bowles Before the Lord Mayer of London—Important Testimony of Andrew Broom, a Managing Clerk.

Andrew Broom, a Managing Clerk.

From the London Times of Dec. 5.

Yesterday, for the third time, Mr. Robt.
C. M. Bowles, 45 years of age, an American banker, and a member of the firm of Mesars. Bowles Brothers & Co. of the Strand, who recently failed, attended before the Lord Mayor at the justice room of the Mansion House, to answer the charge of having unlawfully and in violation of good faith transferred, pledged, and appropriated to the use and benefit of himself and his partners certain valuable securities, namely, 200 debentures of the Lombardo-Venetian Railway Company of the Value of £2,200, belonging to Messrs. Thomas D'Aglout, Pêre et Fils, bankers at Naples, and which had been intrusted to him and his firm as bankers for safe custody. He was also charged with similarly appropriating securities of the value of about £1,000 belonging to Mrs. Maria Gates, and others worth £2,800, the property of Mr. Robert Gardiner, a retired Compuissary-General. The defendant had been admitted to bail in his own recognizances in £4,000, and two sureties in £2,000 each, and he duly surrendered at the opening of the court. The proceedings excited considerable interest.

Mr. George Lewis, Jr., solicitor, conducted the prosecution; Mr. Metcalfe (instructed by Messrs.
Wontner & Son) appeared for the defence.
The circumstances of the case, as elicited on the two previous examinations, have been reported at some length, and it will not therefore be necessary to repeat them.
Yesterday Mr. Andrew Broom, managing clerk to Messrs. Turquand, Youngs & Co., public accountants in Tokenhouse yard, was called as a witness, and gave important evidence. He said the had been engaged in the investigation of the books of Messrs. Howles, and from them he found that all the drawings of the partners appeared in what were called the salary and entertainment accounts. The latter account was drawn upon by each partner dealing with the London branch. From the lat of January to the thof November last the entertainment account as to which Mr. Young had given evidence. The letters of the firm were mostly signed by Mr. Keith and Mr. Sullivan, the managers, and by Mr. Frith, a clerk, but some bore the signatures of the defendant and his brother Charles. Those addressed to the Union Bank were written chiefly by Mr. Keith and Mr. Sullivan. Witness last saw Keith on Saturday afternoon, but no understood he was now in Paris. The suspense and trust accounts of Charles Bowles showed a liability of £41,000, and the difference between that amount and the total estimated iability of the London house. £83,000, stood for the most part against the other branches of the business. The Boston branch appeared to owe £88,884, and the Paris branch £54,171, making together £143,035, but to the New York house there was owing by the London house £115,817, the difference being £27,238, which formed part of the deficiency. There were also the following items among the deficiencies: Loss on trading, £5,632; liabilities on bills payable for which no consideration appeared, £6,949; and estimated loss on current account, £1,035—in all £13,636—which, added to the other sum of £27,238, made £40,874. The firm received moneys on deposit and granted letters of credit to travellers all over Europe. At the time of the stoppage letters of credit, representing £16,000 actually paid in cash or bills to the firm, were unpaid. Other letters, also unpaid, were granted to the extent of £160,000 on the personal credit and reputation of the grantees in which no money had been deposited with the firm, and consequently there was no liability upon them. If any of those letters had been paid Mesars. Bowles would have been indebted to those of their correspondents who had paid them, but they would have

who had paid them, but they would have HELD THEIR GRANTEES RESPONSIBLE.

He produced a statement of securities of customers deposited with the Union Bank of Lonion, against which advances had been made by Messrs. Bowles. The total value of such securities was £14.476. The list included the 200 debentures of the Lombardo-Venetian Railway lompany, worth £2.200, belonging to Messrs. D'Agiout, against which there was a debit balance of £179, and some Turkish stock, worth £3.965, belonging to Commissary-General Gardiner, in respect of which £3.774 had been advanced. He also produced a statement of customers' securities, similarly deposited, against which no advances had been made, the value of which was £12.128. In that list Commissary-Gen. Gardiner appeared as a depositor of $30,000 Virginian bonds, worth £2.557, which the firm had held for safe custody: Mrs. Maria Gates as a depositor of securities worth £373 2s. 6d.; Mr. Patrick Neill of various securities of the value of £2.512; Mr. H. E. Gillman of bonds worth £820 6s. 3d.; and Mr. D. Goubareff of United States bonds (five-twenties, 1867) worth £4.162 (6s. In addition, Mrs. Gates held unpaid letters of credit to the amount of £6.5 Mr. Goubareff of E10, and Mr. Neill of £1.068. All these securities were now in the hands of the Union Bank. The securities deposited there in addition by the firm, and belonging to themselves, were of the value of £861. He produced likewise the checks of the firm, which were mostly signed by Keith, and some few by the defendant, and the bankers' pass book. Between the 16th and the 20th of September last that being the time when Messrs. D'Agiout's bonds were pledged) they had a balance in their favor at the head office of between £2,000 and £4,000. It appeared from the books that £30,000 and £4,000. It appeared from the books that £30,000 and £4,000. It appeared from the books that £30,000 and £4,000. It appeared from the books that £30,000 and £4,000. It appeared from the books that £30,000 and £4,000. It appeared from the books that ying for an advance.

were signed by Charles Bowles and Sullivan.

THE CONDITION OF THEIR OTHER BANKS.

Being cross-examined by Mr. Metcaife, he said his evidence was based only on the contents of the books in the London branch. He knew that some of the letters of credit to the amount of £160,000, of which he had spoken, had been granted by the other branches, and advised to London. There was a balance due to the firm on letters of credit of £1.641, which included a sum of £1.500 standing against the name of F. E. B. Stetson. He could not state at present what was the condition of the New York and Boston houses, as the accounts had not yet been received. The Paris house had furnished a statement showing a surplus of assets. He did not know that the Boston fire had entailed considerable loss on the house there. It was impossible as yet to say what the real state of the entire business of the bank was. There were balances due from the Boston and Paris houses, but the New York balance was the other way. The bank in the Strand was now only kept open for purposes of liquidation. The bulk of the financial business appeared to have been conducted by Keith and Sullivan, but he could not say how far the defendant interfered in it beyond what appeared by his signatures to letters and checks. He did not know of any steps being taken to bring Keith or Sullivan before the Court. He believed they were both in Paris at present, and he had learned that Charles Bowles left Boston about the 6th of November for San Francisco. There were accounts in the bank which no one but Chas. Bowles could explain. The defendant had assisted in the investigation as far as he could, and he also had referred him to his brother Charles. Both Keith and Sullivan had power to sign for the firm by procuration. He had not, in the examination with that view, defendant, which, however, had no reference to the particular transactions in question.

THE LIABILITIES OF THE FIRM.

In reëxamination the witness said all the ad-THE CONDITION OF THEIR OTHER BANKS defendant, which, however, had no reference to the particular transactions in question.

The Liabilities of the Firm.

In reëxamination the witness said all the advances obtained from the Union Bank were placed to the credit of the firm, and absorbed in the conduct of the business. If Charles Bowles had been before the Court instead of the defendant, his brother, he could have given no other evidence than he had. In estimating the liabilities of the other houses of the firm. The Paris house had, he believed, suspended payment.

Mr. Robert Gardiner said he resided at 45 St. George's square, and was a retired Commissary-General. He deposited in July, 1871, with Messrs. Bowles, eighty-one Turkish six percent. bonds of the value of £3,680, or, adding interest, £3,774. They accounted to him from time to time for the coupons. The witness then verbaily related the terms of a written agreement with reference to the purchase of some property in the United States between him and other parties, a part of the arrangement being that each should deposit with Messrs. Bowles, as their mutual bankers, for safe custody a certain amount of Securities. He stated that he on his part deposited $30,000 Virginian bonds worth £2,887. The firm advanced him nothing upon them, and he gave them no authority to piedge them. He complained that, in addition to pawning his securities, Messrs. Bowles had acted when the continuous and keith, but no observed that he looked upon the defendant as the local head of the stabilishment in London.

A MANAGER OF THE UNION BANK TESTIFIES.

Mr. Robert Slater, one of the managers of the ed upon the defendant as the local head of the establishment in London.

A MANAGER OF THE UNION BANK TESTIFIES.

Mr. Robert Slater, one of the managers of the Cnion Bank of London in Princes street, said that Messrs. Bowles Bros. & Co. kept a current account with that bank both at the head office and at the Charing Cross branch. The persons authorized to sign checks by procuration were Mr. C. S. P. Bowles, Mr. H. C. Stetson, Mr. W. B. Bowles, Mr. Albert Gordon Bowles, Mr. George Putnam Blanshard, Mr. B. Richmond Keith, Mr. R. C. M. Bowles (the defendant), Mr. Sullivan, and Mr. Nathan Appleton. The account had continued up to the present time. The firm owed the bank £29,000, against securities which they held. On the current account there was a balance in favor of Messrs. Bowles to the amount of £774. He produced 200 Lombardo-Venetian shares, which, he said, the bank held in respect of an advance of £1,800, made on the 16th of September last in pursuance of a letter signed by Mr. Keith on the part of the firm.

£1,800, and interest, to give up the bonds to any-one except the legal representatives of Meears. Bowles, and they did not recognize Meears. D'Aglout in the transaction. The sum had not D'Aglout in the transaction. The sum had not been repaid.

The bonds in question were formally identified by M. D'Aglout as those which his firm deposited with Messrs. Bowles, and Mr. Lewis stated that the amount advanced, and interest in full, would be tendered next day to the Union Bank, and they would take the consequences of refusal.

At this stage the Lord Mayor adjourned the further hearing of the case until Saturday week at 11 o'clock, and in the mean time the defendant was admitted to the same ball in £8,000.

SPRINGFIELD, Dec. 18.—Chas. S. P. Bowles, of the Paris banking house of Bowles Brothers & Co., was arrested at Ingleside, a hotel six miles from this city, last evening, at the suit of John H. Huben of this city, last evening, at the suit of John H. Huben of this city, for $6,985—funds deposited with the firm. Nathan Appleton of Boston, a special partner, Gordon Bowles, a brother, Mr. Heamans of New York, counsel, and two clerks of the firm, were there in consultationwith Chass. S. P. Bowles. The case will be heard before A. W. Bosworth, Master in Chancery, this afternoon.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The ball to secure the release of Mr. Robert Bowles not having been furnished, he has been sent to Newgate Prison to await trial on the charges against him.

Another Old Comedy at the Fifth Avenue Theatre.
"A Bold Stroke for a Husband," as produced at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, is an enjoyable representation of a delightful play. With a cast which did not include Fisher, Davidge, Lewis, or Miss Morant, it seemed more than doubtful whether Mr. Daly's company could do justice to this excellent old comedy. The doubt proved ill founded. Miss Fanny Davenport, for the second time this season, surpassed the ex-pectations of her friends. Her Donna Olivia was a continuous disappointment of the most agree-able character. She acted the lovable girl, who able character. She acted the lovable girl, who assumes the termagant to drive away her persistent lovers, with a delicacy, spirit, and evident sense of humor. of which we had not believed her capable.

Mr. George Clarke was Don Julio, the successful lover, and Miss Mary Cary was Minette, the maid who so amusingly personates her mistress Donna Olivia, in an interview with that unsuspecting gallant. We have never before had ocasion to mention this actress, but she deserves notice for the drollery and fun which she imparted to this scene. It was appreciated by the audience, and at the conclusion of the fourth act she was called before the curtain with Mr. Clarke.

Without specifying persons, we must again remind the company at this theatre that a thorough knowledge of the text is essential to a satisfactory performance of any play.
